Finpacific joins Misys InFusion Partner Programme to provide Treasury and Risk Solutions for the Australian market

11 May 2015 – Finpacific Treasury Systems, a Sydney-based Treasury, Risk and Cashflow Management software and services provider has signed an agreement with Misys, the leading financial software company, to join the Misys InFusion Partner Programme. Finpacific has over ten years of experience working with banks and corporate treasuries across the Asia Pacific region. It has deep expertise in application development and deployment, managed services, training and consulting, designed to bring efficiency and automation to treasurers and finance departments.

The key areas of joint focus will be the cloud deployment of Misys FusionBanking KTP and FusionRisk portfolios to power core treasury capabilities. Finpacific has been deploying cloud-based treasury solutions for several years and has a wealth of experience in the strategic advantages of operating treasury solutions, including cashflow management in the cloud.

Rangaswami Balakumar, Finpacific CEO, commented: “We are delighted to work even closer with Misys. The focus on core treasury functionality and risk management is a perfect fit to our philosophy of providing treasurers with intelligent tools and functionality to increase their ability to make superior financial decisions.”

“Finpacific has a proven history in cloud-based solutions,” remarked Brian Gibson, VP Partners & Ecosystem. “Its ability to provide Australian Corporates and Credit unions with our core treasury and risk solutions is a major benefit to us and our customers. Finpacific’s knowledge of the Fusion family of products combined with its track record of deploying our solutions in the cloud makes them an essential part of our partner ecosystem. We are delighted that Finpacific has joined the Misys InFusion Partner Programme to help us drive our expanding business in this region.”
